

Business Standard

Women's security hardly a priority for organisations: Survey

Press Trust of India | Mumbai March 3, 2015 Last Updated at 20:57 IST

Just about three per cent of organisations in South Mumbai appear to care for women's security at the workplace, says a survey conducted recently.

Conducted at Mumbai's business district of Nariman Point and the upcoming business district at Lower Parel, the survey showed that even organisations which are aware of the Sexual Harassment of Women at the Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition Redressal) Act, 2013 do not know how to comply with it.

The survey was done by Complykaro, a group formed to assist companies and organisations to implement and execute provisions of the law.

Participating in a meet, as part of the 'Knowledge Series' hosted by the Mumbai Press Club on the occasion of International Women's Day on March 8, Complykaro Services Pvt Ltd Founder Director Vishal Kedia said, "We are shocked at the apparent apathy towards the security of women at several big and small organisations due to ignorance of the law".

